MONTALA

Presented by
THE
NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY
MONTEVALLO HIGH SCHOOL
Montevallo, Alabama
1961

Through the years, the camera has captured many unique and memorable occasions signifying the great importance of pictures in keeping old-times alive in our hearts.

This year, we, the Montala staff, have used this most significant piece of machinery and its most ardent friend—the photographer—to unveil the success of M.H.S. in the sixties. Follow the camera and his friend simply by turning the pages and then re-experience the events of 1960-61.

Interest and devotion mark but a few of the fine traits Mrs. Frederick, our former junior high math teacher, has shown in all her undertakings in our school. Her retirement at the end of 1959-60 brought an end to seventeen years of teaching in the Montevallo School System.

We miss her bright smile and kind words and will always remember her Christian influence.

Editor-in-chief gets interrupted while conferring with staff artist, Bette Muehlbauer; and business and advertising managers, Don Lawley and Beverly Bunn.

Class Editors, Brenda Morris and Peggy Suddieth, look on while organizations editor, Jo Lynn Appleby, gets material from Montala file.

THE MONTALA STAFF

Each year, the National Honor Society Chapter takes as a main project the publishing of the school year-book. This work is done during study halls, club periods and after school. Each member is responsible for one main job but pitches in when needed on other work.

In the picture at left, feature editor, Francis Fulgham, and administration editor, Lola Daviston, look for ideas. Below, Mrs. Emily Pendleton discusses layouts with sports editor, Danny Thornton.

MAJORETTES—Glenda Gaddy, head; Langley Tolbert, Linda Gentry, Elaine Fisher, Lucretia Hollingsworth, Becky Hicks, Charlotte Higgins, and Jackie Blakely.

The beginning band is made up of members from the seventh grade. These members will move on to the "big" band at the beginning of their Junior Two year.

The swing band warms up before a performance.

Spotlight, bi-weekly mimeographed newspaper of Montevallo High, is published by members of the journalism class assisted by junior high reporters, an artist, and the two faculty advisers.

In 1960, Spotlight won the state sweepstakes award, presented by the Alabama Student Press Association to the high school paper judged best, regardless of budget or method of printing. For three years prior to 1960, Spotlight had won first place among mimeographed publications.

The newspaper is distributed free to students on alternate Fridays. Its news and features form an important link between school and community. Spotlight also affords lively, practical application of the principles of news gathering, reporting and editing, studied in journalism.

2 CO-EDITORS Bonnie Byrd and Danny Thornton list news, feature and editorial assignments for staff.

3 REPORTER Beverly Bunn types article after gathering facts by interviewing students and faculty members.

4 HEADLINES for articles are written by Robert Eddings and Wade Baine, who also write and edit articles.

5 CUTTING STENCIL, Miss DeMent follows planned page layouts.

6 PROOFREADER Marjorie Thiemonge searches for errors on page.

7 MIMEOGRAPHING 650 copies of Spotlight each issue gets attention of Lola Daviston, Danny Thornton.

ACTIVITIES

Queen Lola Daviston and her attendants, Janice Waters, Phyllis Kyser, Marilyn Kyser, and Sandra Scott pose for publicity pictures to advertise the event.

Homecoming 1960

One of the biggest events during the school year at M.H.S. is Homecoming. This festivity, held in the fall, is a special invitation for graduates to return to their Alma Mater.

Preparations begin early in the school year with committees making plans for such things as pep rallies, a parade, football game ceremonies, and a dance. An election is also held to select a queen and four attendants. Two of these attendants are chosen by and represent the junior high school.

Each grade—from both the senior and junior high—is responsible for a float in the parade. Working during activity periods and after school things "shape up" for the Friday afternoon event.

Before the parade begins, Queen Lola and her attendants line up for a picture. Queen and her attendants down town during the afternoon pep rally—Both cars and floats “ready to roll.”

Homecoming 1960

Former graduates return to play with the band during half-time ceremonies.

Cheerleaders get together to "whoop it up."

The Queen and her attendants enjoy the game from the sidelines.

A tense moment during the game in which the Montevallo Bulldogs emerged victorious over Shelby County High.

The big moment arrives — Student Council President Peter Givhan crowns Queen Lola Daviston at the dance.
